CREATIVE ARTS FOR DEVELOPMENT WORK
(30 hours – 2 credits)

This course is designed to provide beginning skills in using creative arts for development work. The students have an opportunity to experience creativity and self expression through arts such as dance movement, music, drama, visual arts, and story telling. They understand the therapeutic value of these art forms in healing and well-being, and begin to explore the possibilities of using these in their work with people in any setting/field of work.
